

applied technology

overview

No matter what industry they are in or what products they deliver, companies that develop new applied technologies are a catalyst to economic growth and serve as an inspiration to others to do the same. They change the way we conduct business. They help us communicate better. They improve our quality of life.

In today's competitive business world, entrepreneurs and established companies alike need the kind of expert legal counsel that can help them transform their ideas into reality, and to build great products and strong businesses. They need a law firm that can help them finance and grow their enterprise, while effectively protecting, marketing and distributing their products to the world.

McMillan's Applied Technology Industry Group is a recognized leader in addressing the interconnected legal and business issues that affect both suppliers and users of the full range of technology products and services in today's economy. Our team has deep industry knowledge and invaluable contacts in the investment, regulatory and technology communities, enabling us to provide a full range of services to virtually every applied technology sector—from information technology, to aerospace and defense, to telecommunications.

We help technology companies at all stages of their development, whether as first-stage emerging companies or as mature privately or publicly owned corporate enterprises. We assist them with their entity structure, financing through angel or venture capital investments, public offerings, joint venture and licensing agreements, growth through mergers and acquisitions, intellectual property protection, and dispute resolution needs.
