overview

Canadian and foreign fund managers, advisors and dealers have the additional task of managing the increasingly complex maze of Canadian securities regulations.

With the tightened rules and stricter enforcement of regulations across the financial services sector, the need for experienced legal advice has never been greater.

McMillan professionals have extensive experience advising investment fund industry participants on the complex registration, compliance and marketing regulations that impact their businesses.

We also help investment fund clients manage and grow their operations through mergers and acquisitions, reorganizations, financings, and developing efficient tax strategies to help them succeed in today's dynamic business environment.
